These cradmitted sixteen of them to bail in $2,500 ters, as I believe them to be lie at diffters, as I believe them to be, lie at different depths, or rather, their raised edges are of different heights. Their depths are athomiess. They have undoubtedly become the receptacles of the hundreds of people the lake since that country was settled, and of the undoubted thousands of people killed in the fierce battles that were freand of the undoubted thousands of people killed in the fierce battles that were frequently waged on the shores of the lake between the hostile tribes of aboriginal warriors during the centuries preceding the coming of the white man.

"It was in Cayuga Lake that the fiendish in the control of the lake that the fiendish is cayuga the lake the cayuga the lake the cayuga the lake the cayuga the cayuga the lake the cayuga murderer, Rulof, lowered the bodies of his wife and child, thirty years ago, after he had murdered them. The bodies were inclosed in a chest, as he confessed before he was hanged at Binghampton for another was hanged at Binghampton for another murder. The weeks that were spent in dragging the lake for this chest were simply wasted, for it had sunk into the mouth of one of those bottomless openings and, if it is not sinking yet, is still floating about in those mysterious depths. Within half a century more than 100 persons have been drowned in Cayuga Lake, to recover the bodies of whom the grappling iron and drag were used industriously, but in vain. If it were possible for one to make the rounds were possible for one to make the rounds of this lake's crater-like bed he would without doubt, encounter hideous charnel houses beyond number-caverns where hosts of grinning skeletons have found sepulchre, submarine catacombs, without end. Per-haps the electricians, exploring the lake oottom with their intense lights, as they purpose doing, may make some such discoveries. Another mystery about Cayuga Lake that used to puzzle me was its curiou tides. They were irregular in their occur rence, but very decided. I remember one year when the phenomenon appeared twice. Three years passed before it appeared again. During one of these tidal motions of the lake the water receded fifty feet. The recession of water was gradual, but the returning tide came in with considerable force and rapidity. Water taken from Cay-uga Lake from a depth of 300 feet, probably from one of the crater cavities, is highly charged with sulphuretted hydrogen, nitro-

They are, therefore, retired as soon as this is noticed, and advantage is taken of their being idle to overhaul them for summer business. This preparation for the summer has to be done anyway at some time or other in the year.

Anchor Line found it necessary to withdraw the City of Rome early in November. It is now announced that the Furnessia is also withdrawn, travel to Glasgow proving unexpectedly light. In the Gartenflora of March 15, an admirable German botanical and horticultural publication, are named and described no less than twenty-three varieties of our common silver maple, drawings being given of a large number of them. Those who are fa-miliar with this common tree in our country know that it would be just as easy to get a hundred varieties as ten.

There is, however, one difficulty which will excuse sometimes the use of a Latin name to mark a conspicuous variation. The common cut-leaved sliver maple, for instance, brought into great prominence by Eilwanger & Barry from a plant found by Mr. Wier of Illinois, is Latinized as Wierl. It is difficult for nurserymen to decide how to name these variations, and some name is certainly required under which to introduce them. We might, to be sure any Brown's marks Smith's marks sure, say Brown's maple, Smith's maple, Jones' maple, and so on, but it is evident that such names would never become so permanent and fixed as when the Latin form Smithii, Brownii and Jonesii would be employed, and yet the use of these Latin names in this way proves to be very annoying and troublesome to the

The Next Big Exposition.

The site of the exhibition of 1900 has been definitely selected. At the meeting of the subcommittee especially appointed to settle the question it was decided that the Champ de Mars, the Trocadero, the Esplanade des Invalides, the Quai d'Orsay, the Palais de l'Industrie and the surrounding ground should all be devoted to the great world's show that is to be held here at the close of the century, and that the banks of the Seine the century, and that the banks of the Seine should be further connected by a bridge to be constructed between the Pont de la Concorde and the Pont des Invalides.

It is interesting to note, now that this problem has been solved, that all the members of the subcommittee who attended the meeting were in favor of this choice, M. Berger, who was the sole absentee, being the only one who would have preferred Auteuil; yet, as a matter of fact, M. Berger's views were originally shared by most ger's views were originally shared by most of his colleagues. It was objected, however, that the distance from the center of the

KEEN EYESIGHT OF INDIANS.

Eyelids From Smoky Tepees.

Dr. Carlos Montezuma, the government physician of the Indian school at Carlisle, has brought to Philadelphia thirty Indian children of both sexes for eye treatment at the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital, says the Press. The cases are of great interest in optical study, as they show just what effect civilization has upon the eyes of the redskin, who is accustomed to prairie life, with all its freedom of action. The disease with which the eyes of the little band is afflicted is inflamed eyelids. The smoky tepees largely cause this trouble, and when brought Company.

The other order is similar to this, with the same title, except that it says that it is the Union Trust Company against the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway Company.

Peck, counsel (in the Union Trust Company), by Alexander & William A. Rossington and the answer by Peck), and east the contagion spread throughout the in visual objects. What they see is near at hand. They become subject to headaches, due to the great strain caused, and disease follows. An interesting feature has been brought out in the tests for color blindness. It has been found that the Indian has an extremely low average of color defects. Color blindness in an Indian is very rare. About twenty of the thirty children had their eyes tested for glasses, which they will only use when reading or studying. Dr. Montezuma, who brought the children here, is an Indian himself and has had a romantic career. He is of the Apache tribe, his father being one of the bravest of these fierce warriors. When five years old he was carried away captive by the Pruise Indians, who had made war on the Apaches, and later was sold to a landscape photographer, who

"On one of my electioneering tours in the mountains," remarked a member of Congress from North Carolina to a writer for the Detroit Free Press, "which was done on horseback, I carried in my saddlebags four quart bottles of good red liquor to use only in case of an emergency. I wasn't very popular in one election, and I thought I'd popularize a bit, so to speak. One evening I rode up to a store, in front of which ant a dozen natives, and when I told them who I was they did not seem at all enthusiastic over the news. I was to stay all night there, and as I passed through the store I the branches.

The receivership will result in cutting off the branches.

George R. Peck, general solicitor of the Santa Fe, says:

"The bills in both cases show that the lines were heavily involved with maturing obligations coming on soon, and that the interest due January 1 could not be paid, and would be defaulted. In both cases complainants went elaborately into figures, and were very full and voluminous. The first mortgage class A, $77,000,000, the second mortgage, class A, $77,000,000, and second mortgage, class B, $5,000,000.

"The interest due on bonds by January is $3,000,000, and the floating indebtedness about $5,000,000, making a total indebtedness of $240,000,000. Judge Caldwell promptly ordered receivers to be appointed, and appointed the same receivers in both cases. Joseph W. Reinhart, one of the receivers, is president of the Santa Fe system. Another, Gen. John J. McCook of New York, is the general counsel of the Santa Fe system, and the third, Joseph C. Wilson of Topeka, Kan., is now clerk of the United States district court at Topeka, and a level-headed business man, having been twice mayor of heard one of the men say something about

No lecturer in this country has the power of so picturesquely conveying scientific facts to a ropular audience as Sir Rober Ball. In the course of his lecture at the Royal Institute lately on recent solar dishearers the stupendous heat given out by the sun, declared that the energy of one square yard of the sun's surface would keep a series of Atlantic liner boilers at work, developing from 29,000 to 30,000 horse power continually. If all the coal in the earth were put into one large heap and kindled years, died in Pittsburg; Mary Weisman, daughter of Henry Weisman of Alleghany, aged three years; Mrs. Dicca Arthur, a widow, aged fifty years, died at Homestead. In the case of Dominick, it was developed at the coroner's inquest that he, with about forty others, Hungarians, Italians and Austrians, lived together, each man doing his own cooking. Dominick had not worked for two months, and for days at a time he would have nothing to eat. On Thursday he procured some putrid fish, and in his half-starved condition ate of it. The man took sick and died, none of the others paying any attention to him. A verdict of death from starvation was rendered. The little Weisman girl had been sick a week, but the parents could not provide proper food and medical treatment, and it was only when the child died that the neighbors learned how distressed the family was.

Mrs. Arthur's death was caused by sick-of the exuberant activity of the sola terial from the speed at which the descent gas darts forth at times su to carry it beyond the attraction sun's gravity.

EXPERIENCE OF THE WRONG KINI A Student of Viviscotion Who Visited Africa and Acquired Coctly Know edge.

One of the most curious expeditions ev planned by man was that once undertaken by Dr. J. G. Bunting of Portland, says the Lewiston (Me.) Journal. During all his life the conductor notified Superintendent E. C.

Foster of the railroad, and was instructed to transfer Gen. Banks to a returning car at the end of his trip in swampscott.

From Swampscott the general was sent back to Lynn, where he was met by Special Policeman Valentine, who escorted him to a train on the Boston and Maine rail road, and accompanied him to his home, rib and perforating the stomach a condi-tion could be produced similar to that ex-isting in the person of St. Martin. Thereisting in the person of St. Martin. Therefore the doctor purchased his supplies and salled across to Tunis, in the north of Africa. There he hired a native chief with forty of his followers, paying them a liberal retaining fee and promising them alluring largess when the trip should be ended. They set forth. The doctor carried $5,000 in his inside pocket, and the chief probably lay awake four nights thinking about the matter. At any rate, on the fifth night he sneaked into the doctor's tent and delivered a little address over the muzzle night he sneaked into the doctor's tent and delivered a little address over the muzzle of two pistols. When he had concluded the doctor passed over his ducats and the chief passed over the border along with his renegade band. They helped themselves to such supplies as suited their artiess and unenlightened tastes. The doctor came back without a retinue and with a deal of experience that will never appear in a medical work.
